A. About the Host Committee and This Handbook

Welcome to The Good Land Committee, ("Host Committee" or "Committee"). The Host Committee is a nonprofit organization formed to reap the benefits of bringing the Democratic National Committee Convention ("Convention" or "DNCC") to the City of Milwaukee ("City"), putting Milwaukee on the world stage, generating future event business, boosting the local economy and image of the City, and thus benefiting all those who live and work in this community. The Host Committee is non-political and non-partisan.

Under agreements with the Democratic National Committee, the City of Milwaukee and the operators of Fiserv Forum, the Host Committee is obligated to raise and spend the funds necessary to put on all of the logistical aspects of the Convention, including buildout of the Convention hall and related facilities, transportation, housing, communications, security, technology and other elements of the Convention infrastructure; and to host events welcoming delegates and Convention participants to the City and showcasing the City to the nation and the world.

As an employee of the Host Committee, you are playing a critical role in staging what is likely to be a historic event and one of the most important and widely followed political events in the history of the United States. We expect every employee of the Host Committee to conduct themselves in a way that is consistent with the importance and visibility of our work.

The intent of this Handbook is to provide guidance about some of the Host Committee's important policies and processes. It is designed to help employees become familiar with various aspects of Host Committee employment and to communicate general guidelines and expectations.

No employee handbook can cover every situation or answer every question. Employees with questions regarding this Handbook are encouraged to speak with the Chief Operating Officer ("COO").

B. Important Information About This Handbook

The Employee Handbook is not a contract of employment or a promise of specific treatment in specific situations. The Employee Handbook summarizes current policies and practices. However, policies and practices may be amended at any time with or without notice. In addition, depending upon the circumstances, the Host Committee's actions in any given situation may vary from written policy.

- Nothing contained in the Employee Handbook should be understood as a guarantee of continued employment. Employment is on an at-will basis. That means that the employment relationship may be terminated at any time either by you or the Host Committee, with or without prior notice, for no reason or for any reason not prohibited by law.

- The at-will nature of employment cannot be modified or changed by any oral or written statement by anyone, except for an express written agreement signed by the affected employee (or their representative) and the President of the Host Committee.

- The Employee Handbook as revised supersedes and replaces any and all handbooks, manuals, and policy statements, whether written and oral, that employees may have received in the past.

- The Employee Handbook is the property of the Host Committee. It may not be duplicated in any way without written permission from the Host Committee or disclosed to any third party.

- The Host Committee will, at all times, abide by applicable federal, state, or local law. If any provision in this Handbook conflicts with applicable law, the law's requirements will govern.

- Questions about the policies in this Handbook should be directed to the President or Chief Operating Officer.

C. Open Door Philosophy

As part of our commitment to professionalism and respect for each individual associated with the Host Committee, we encourage open, transparent communication. This means that anyone can raise issues, questions, or problems with senior members of the Host Committee.

Your first resource is the President, Chief of Staff or Chief Operating Officer.

If you want your issue to be handled confidentially, please say so. Bear in mind, however, that although the Host Committee will treat issues as confidentially as possible, some issues, may require the Host Committee to disclose the issue to others as the issue is investigated and addressed, but the Host Committee will make reasonable efforts to keep those investigations as confidential as possible.

D. Code of Conduct

1. Ethics

The Host Committee conducts its business fairly, impartially, in an ethical and proper manner, and in compliance with all laws and regulations. Employees of the Host Committee are expected to maintain the highest professional standards and act in a manner that reflects positively upon the Host Committee and inspires confidence, respect, and trust at all times.

To maintain those standards, employees are expected to exercise discretion and sound judgment in handling all matters assigned to them and to avoid impropriety or even the appearance of impropriety. Each employee should take special care to think how their conduct will appear to outside observers.

2. Outside Employment and Activities

No employee of the Host Committee may accept paid employment with, or contract to perform services for compensation for, any other entity, individual or organization without the express prior permission of the President. Part-time employees will be given permission to seek and maintain other employment, but such employment must be approved, in writing, by the President to avoid any conflict.

No employee may accept employment or accept volunteer work with any political campaign, political committee or organization, or political party.

An employee may serve as a director, board member, officer or employee of any other nonprofit organization once that position has been disclosed to and approved in writing by the President. If you volunteer for another nonprofit organization you may not use your title, the name of the Host Committee or any Host Committee resources in doing that volunteer work, without the approval of the President.

No employee may use the name, office space, equipment, facilities resources or supplies of the Host Committee for work—paid or volunteer—for any other organization, except as part of their duties for the Host Committee.

3. Standards of Conduct; Discipline; Termination

Groups of people who are working together for any purpose require certain guidelines pertaining to their conduct and relationships. Accordingly, our employees must be aware of their responsibilities to the Host Committee and to co-workers. When standards are not followed, the Host Committee is committed to providing a fair and constructive approach to correcting these situations.

The elements of the corrective action process may include informal counseling and feedback, written and/or final warning, suspension without pay, demotion and termination. The Host Committee reserves the right to determine the most appropriate approach based on the specific circumstances, and is not required to follow any formal "progressive discipline" system.

Employment at the Host Committee remains "at will," and can be terminated at any time with or without cause at the option of either the Host Committee or the employee. The Host Committee may use or not use the corrective action process (or any element of it) in its sole discretion. Thus, employees may be placed on probation or terminated immediately or at any time, whenever their job performance becomes unsatisfactory as determined by the President in their sole discretion—whether before, during or after a formal performance evaluation process as described elsewhere in this Handbook. Any probationary period will be of specific length and the employee will be notified in writing of the commencement of any probationary period and of the conditions that must be met by the employee during that period in order to avoid termination.

The types of behavior and conduct that the Host Committee considers inappropriate that could lead to disciplinary action up to and including termination, at the sole discretion of the Host Committee, include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Employee misconduct or other violations of Host Committee policies or procedures;
- Insubordination including, but not limited to refusal to follow management instructions; refusal or failure to perform assigned tasks; or purposeful delay in carrying out an assignment;
- Violation of the drug-and alcohol-free workplace policy;
- Deliberate or careless damage or defacement of any Host Committee property or the property of others;
- Provoking a physical altercation or threatening violence in the workplace, on or off the premises;
- Harassing, intimidating and/or disrespectful behavior;
- Retaliation against those who raise complaints alleging unlawful behavior or behavior in contravention of these policies;
- Disclosure of confidential or proprietary information to unauthorized persons;
- Excessive absenteeism and/or tardiness;
- Unauthorized use of Host Committee equipment, time, materials or facilities;
- Falsifying employment application, personnel, or other Host Committee documents or records;
- Unauthorized obligation of Host Committee financial resources to a vendor or payee;
- Fraud or theft;
- Failure to cooperate with an internal investigation, including, but not limited to, investigations of violations of these rules of conduct;
- Poor work performance, including, but not limited to poor quality or quantity of work, mistakes due to carelessness, and inability to perform the essential functions of the job; and
- Actions or affiliations contrary to the mission of the Host Committee.

This list is intended to be representative of the types of activities that may result in disciplinary action. It is not intended to be comprehensive and does not alter the employment-at-will relationship between the employee and the Host Committee.

4. Alcohol/Drug Use

Employees are expected to be fit for duty when reporting to work. The Host Committee encourages and maintains an alcohol and drug-free work environment on its premises. The Host Committee prohibits employees from working if they are under the influence of illegal drugs or alcohol. This prohibition extends to staff attending Host Committee events.

5. Ethics in Host Committee Operations

Gift rules.

No employee may accept anything of value, including meals or tickets to events, from any person representing any company or vendor that has a contract, or will be attempting to obtain a contract or order, for the supply of any facilities, goods, services or supplies to the Host Committee.

No employee should invite any government official, whether elected or appointed, at any level (federal, state or local), to a meal, event, or other activity with monetary value at the expense of the employee or Host Committee, without checking with the President to determine limits or prohibitions that may be imposed by applicable ethics laws and regulations. No employee should provide any ticket to an event other than a Host Committee event, or provide or reimburse any travel costs for any government official, without checking the applicable ethics restrictions.

E. Equal Employment Opportunity

Making sure every member of the Host Committee team feels comfortable in their work environment, free from all explicit or implicit discrimination, is a core value of this Host Committee and every staff member is required to help uphold it.

The Host Committee is an equal opportunity employer. The Host Committee believes every employee has the right to work in an environment free from unlawful discrimination as is consistent with our commitment to diversity, respect, and inclusion. Consistent with applicable federal, state and local laws, the Host Committee provides all employees and applicants with equal opportunity in all aspects of the employment relationship. This includes employment decisions related to hiring, promotions, transfers, disciplinary action, termination, compensation, and training.

The Host Committee will comply with all applicable laws prohibiting discrimination in employment. The Host Committee prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, creed, religion, age, national origin, ancestry, mental or physical disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, veteran or military status, marital status, genetic information, or any other status or trait protected by applicable law. The Host Committee will comply with all applicable federal, state, and local laws, as well as the Equal Employment Opportunity policy set forth in this section ("EEO Policy").

Every employee is responsible for ensuring that their conduct does not offend any of the policies in this section of the Handbook. The Host Committee expects every employee to act in full support of its EEO Policy. By doing so, employees help to create and maintain a non-discriminatory work environment in which everyone is treated with respect.

If an employee experiences or witnesses discrimination or harassment, they have a responsibility to promptly bring the issue to the Host Committee's attention by contacting their supervisor, the Chief of Staff, COO or the President. (For more information about addressing such concerns, see the section below on "Reporting and Investigation Procedures.")

Employees can raise such concerns without fear of reprisal or retaliation. The Host Committee strictly prohibits any retaliation for reporting, or for providing information in an investigation of possible discrimination or harassment. The Host Committee will take action, up to and including termination, against any employee who the Host Committee finds has engaged in any type of discrimination or retaliation.

1. Religious Accommodation

The Host Committee respects the religious beliefs and practices of all employees. It is committed to reasonably accommodating the religious practices of its employees, unless doing so would create an undue hardship to the ability of the Host Committee to carry out its mission.

If an employee wishes to request a religious accommodation, they must submit a written request to their supervisor and the President that explains the modification to regular work requirements needed because of their religious beliefs. The Host Committee will evaluate the request considering, as appropriate, the requested accommodation and available alternatives. The supervisor and/or the President will review the request and communicate a response in a timely manner.

2. Disability Accommodations

The Host Committee is fully committed to hiring and reasonably accommodating person with disabilities.

Employees requiring a reasonable accommodation should contact the COO. The Host Committee will review requests for reasonable accommodation individually, on a case-by-case basis, through dialogue between the Host Committee and the employee involved.

If an employee develops a condition that they believe creates the need for a reasonable accommodation, they should submit a written request explaining the requested accommodation to their supervisor and the COO. In addition, the employee should provide a health care provider statement that supports the request and explains why it is needed. A written request will facilitate a review of possible reasonable accommodations. The Host Committee abides by all applicable laws that require employers to treat medical information with appropriate confidentiality.

3. Harassment

a. Harassment Prevention

The Host Committee is committed to providing a work environment that is free from harassment. Harassment is prohibited when it is based on an employee's race, color, sex, creed, religion, age, national origin, ancestry, mental or physical disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, veteran or military status, marital status, genetic information, or any other status or trait protected by applicable law, or that is otherwise against our philosophy of a workplace that promotes respect for each other.

As discussed in more depth below, prohibited harassment may include comments, slurs, jokes, profanity, innuendoes, cartoons, pranks, physical conduct, internet or email activity (including accessing explicit websites from Host Committee computers), etc., that is derogatory or offensive and is based on an individual's protected trait or status.

Besides being a violation of Host Committee policy, discriminatory or harassing conduct also may violate applicable laws. However, even if the conduct does not violate the law, if the Host Committee determines that an employee's conduct violates the Host Committee's "no harassment" policy, the Host Committee may take disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

b. Meaning of "Harassment"

Harassment is unwelcome conduct that denigrates or shows hostility or aversion toward a person because of their legally protected trait or status, if the unwelcome conduct has the purpose or effect of either unreasonably interfering with that person's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive work environment.

Following are some examples of the types of conduct that may constitute prohibited harassment, depending on the circumstances:

- Demeaning, hostile or negative communications that are based on someone's protected status or trait, such as their race, color, sex, religion, age, national origin, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, etc. Examples include derogatory comments, hateful symbols, epithets, jokes, teasing, and slurs or negative stereotyping. The form of the communication does not matter (e.g., it could be written, verbal or graphic).

- Any other hostile, intimidating or threatening conduct that is directed at someone because of a protected status or trait, such as their race, color, sex, religion, age, national origin, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, etc.

c. Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is one form of unlawful harassment. Sexual harassment is not limited to conduct by men towards women, or by women towards men: it also can include unwelcome gender-based or sexual conduct that is directed at someone of the same sex or non-binary individuals.

Sexual harassment includes any unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and any other verbal, visual or physical conduct of a sexual nature which meets any one or more of the following three criteria:

- Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment;

- Submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment decisions affecting the individual; or

- The conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive work environment.

Prohibited sexual harassment also includes any effort by a person in authority to use their position or authority to control, influence or affect the career, salary, employment status, or terms and conditions of employment of any employee or prospective employee in exchange for sexual favors.

No manager or other Host Committee employee may state or imply to anyone that cooperation or non-cooperation of a sexual nature could have either a positive or negative effect on the person's career development or on any term or condition of employment. The Host Committee also prohibits anyone from making or threatening reprisals if an individual rejects any sexual advance or other sexual conduct.

Some examples of conduct that may constitute prohibited sexual harassment, depending on the circumstances, are below:

- Unwelcome or unwanted physical advances of a sexual nature. This includes patting, pinching, purposefully brushing up against, hugging, cornering, kissing, fondling, and any other similar physical contact unacceptable to another individual.

- Requests or demands for sexual favors. This includes repeated, unwanted requests for dates, subtle or blatant expectations, pressures or requests for any type of sexual favor accompanied by an implied or stated promise of preferential treatment or threat of negative consequences concerning one's employment status.

- Verbal abuse, slurs, and jokes. This includes oral or written comments (including via email or text message) about an individual's body or appearance – where such comments go beyond an appropriate compliment – including sexually oriented comments, sexual innuendoes or actions ("dirty jokes").

- Graffiti and cartoons. This includes demeaning or hostile written, graphic, communications (including email communications) relating to sex.

- Threats, physical contact, pranks, vandalism. This includes physically intimidating conduct directed at person because of the person's sex.

4. Relationships In the Workplace

Supervisors are forbidden from engaging in any romantic or sexual relationship with any employee that they supervise, because of the inherent high risk of harassment. Romantic or sexual relationships between any employee and another employee or any employee and a consultant are strongly discouraged. Such relationships can create the impression of impropriety in terms and conditions of employment and can interfere with productivity and the overall work environment.

No Host Committee employee may ever subject another employee or a consultant to sexual or other prohibited harassment, including requests for sexual favors, sexual advances, offensive touching, and any other unwanted verbal, graphic, conduct, or communications of a sexual nature.

If employees are encouraged or pressured to become involved with a colleague in a way that makes them feel uncomfortable and is unwelcome, they should immediately notify the President, Chief of Staff or COO.

Appropriate action, which may include a reassignment, leave of absence, suspension, or termination, will be taken against those who violate this policy.

5. Reporting and Investigation Procedures

All employees have the right to be free from unlawful discrimination, harassment or retaliation by coworkers, managers, consultants or others they encounter through Host Committee employment.

If an employee believes they are experiencing unlawful discrimination, harassment or retaliation, they have a responsibility to immediately notify one of the following:

- their immediate supervisor;

- the Host Committee Chief of Staff, COO; or

- the Host Committee President.

Any manager who receives a complaint of possible discrimination, harassment or retaliation must notify the COO immediately. The COO will treat all such complaints seriously and will promptly investigate the situation or, as appropriate, retain an outside human resources firm or law firm to do so.

If the Host Committee finds that prohibited conduct has occurred, the Host Committee will take immediate and appropriate action to address the situation. Examples of appropriate action may include counseling, training, and/or taking disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

No employee will be subjected to any form of retaliation for making a complaint of possible discrimination or harassment, or for participating in an investigation of such a complaint. Any employee who believes they have suffered or witnessed any form of retaliation should report the matter immediately as described above.

Anyone who violates the company's "no harassment" or "no retaliation" policy is subject to prompt disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

6. Whistleblower Policy

The Host Committee's whistleblower policy is intended to provide a mechanism for the reporting of illegal activity or the misuse of Host Committee assets while protecting the employees who make such reports from retaliation.

Questionable Conduct. The whistleblower policy is designed to address situations in which an employee suspects another individual has engaged in illegal acts or questionable conduct involving Host Committee assets. This conduct might include outright theft (such as equipment or cash), fraudulent expense reports or timesheets, misstatements of any accounts to any supervisor or to the Host Committee, or an individual's conflict of interest that results in financial or legal harm to the Host Committee. The Host Committee strongly encourages employees to report such questionable conduct and has established a system that allows them to do so anonymously.

Reporting. If an employee suspects illegal conduct or conduct involving misuse of Host Committee assets or in violation of the law, they may report it, anonymously if the employee wishes, and will be protected against any form of harassment, intimidation, discrimination, or retaliation for making such a report in good faith. The Host Committee will promptly conduct an investigation into matters reported, keeping the informant's identity as confidential as possible consistent with the Host Committee's obligation to conduct a full and fair investigation.

No Retaliation. An employee who has made a report regarding potentially illegal or improper conduct and who believes they have been subjected to retaliation of any kind by any Host Committee employee is directed to immediately report it to the COO, Chief of Staff or President. Reports of retaliation will be investigated promptly in a manner intended to protect confidentiality as much as practicable, consistent with a full and fair investigation. The party conducting the investigation will notify the employee of the results of the investigation.

The Host Committee strongly disapproves of and will not tolerate any form of retaliation against employees who report concerns in good faith regarding the Host Committee's operations. Any employee who engages in such retaliation will be subject to discipline, up to and including termination.

F. Employee Classification, Hiring, Working Hours, Compensation and Job Performance

1. Definitions of Employee Status

In order to determine eligibility for benefits (insurance, vacations, etc.) and overtime pay status, and to ensure compliance with federal and state regulations, the Host Committee classifies its employees as follows:

Regular Full-Time: Regular full-time employees are employees who are scheduled to work thirty-five (35) hours or more per week and who are paid in a professional capacity (i.e. non-hourly); such employees are entitled to apply for all benefits.

Regular Part-Time: Regular part-time employees are employees who are scheduled to work less than thirty-five (35) hours per week, but at least twenty (20) hours per week; such employees are entitled to apply for some benefits.

Exempt: Exempt employees are employees who are "exempt" from the overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act and applicable state overtime laws; they are not required to be paid overtime for hours worked in excess of forty (40) hours per work week. These employees typically include executives, supervisors, managerial, professional, non-clerical staff, computer/IT employees, and others.

Non-exempt: Non-exempt employees are employees who are subject to the minimum wage and overtime provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act and applicable state overtime laws. The Host Committee follows the guidelines set forth under the U.S. Fair Labor Standards Act and applicable state wage and hour laws to determine who meets, or does not meet, exemption from overtime status. Non-exempt employees are not eligible for compensatory leave since they are paid overtime at the rate of one-and-a-half (1-1/2) times their regular hourly rate for time worked in excess of forty (40) hours per work week.

2. Compensation & Selection of Personnel

The President makes all hiring decisions and determines compensation and any subsequent salary adjustments.

All new employees will be asked to sign an offer letter at the time of hiring outlining their responsibilities and compensation.

3. Working Hours and Overtime

Professional Staff Work Schedule. It is the desire of the Host Committee that members of the professional staff have normal and reasonable work schedules. It is recognized, however, that because of the nature of staff assignments and responsibilities as related to the Host Committee's goals and objectives, basic work weeks (e.g., Monday through Friday, 40 hours or less per week) frequently will not be sufficient. Given these circumstances and conditions, the Host Committee makes every effort to assist in the achievement of reasonable work schedules by setting rational priorities and establishing realistic productivity expectations for professional staff employees.

In further recognition that professional staff responsibilities require time commitments beyond the basic work week, the President will, to the extent possible, exercise reasonable flexibility in providing for adjustments in the work schedules of such employees to accommodate their respective personal and professional needs. It is the obligation of the President to ensure that equity and fairness prevail among employees regarding the impact of adjustments that may be made. It is further understood that the professional staff is not entitled to compensatory time and exempt professional staff will not be paid overtime.

Religious Accommodation. All staff members are afforded the opportunity to be absent from the workplace to accommodate their personal religious observances when the office is not scheduled to be closed for this reason. It is the responsibility of employees to inform the President that they require time off for this purpose. Further, it is their responsibility to secure approval, in an agreed-upon manner, for the method in which the time will be accounted or compensated. Absences for personal religious observance may be:

- charged against accrued Annual Leave, if the office is not closed for such religious observance(s), or

- taken as Leave Without Pay, or

- taken through authorization from the President to work compensating hours before or after the normal business day.

The agreed-upon arrangement may be implemented only with prior agreement and written authorization from the President.

Overtime. The Host Committee complies with all applicable overtime laws. Employees who are considered “non-exempt” under applicable laws receive overtime pay when they work more than 40 hours in a work week. Exempt employees are not eligible for overtime.

Employees may be required to work overtime. Unless the law requires otherwise, if the position is non-exempt (eligible for overtime compensation), an employee will receive 1 1/2 times their regular rate of pay for every hour they work over 40 hours per work week.

When calculating the number of hours worked for overtime pay purposes, hours that are paid but not worked (e.g. sick leave, bereavement leave, jury duty, holidays, floating holidays and vacation) do not count as time worked.

Non-exempt employees must obtain their manager’s approval before working overtime or taking work home. Violating this policy may result in disciplinary action, up to and including possible termination.

Hourly, non-exempt employees are not permitted to work in excess of 40 hours of work per work week without prior authorization from the President, Chief of Staff or COO.

4. Pay Periods, Paychecks, Timesheets

Pay Periods. The pay period for employees is once monthly. Employees should receive their pay through direct deposit on the last working day of each month, unless the last day falls on a holiday or weekend. In such cases, paychecks will be distributed on the workday immediately preceding the holiday or weekend.

Except in cases of extenuating circumstances, all employees will be paid through direct deposit (see below).

Direct Deposit of Paycheck. Host Committee paychecks are deposited directly into employees' bank accounts, thus providing the convenience of immediate access to deposits made in checking, savings, or other accounts each payday. Employees sign-up for direct deposit as soon as they begin their employment

Timesheets. The Host Committee requires employees to complete timesheets that record vacation hours, sick days, and holidays. Timesheets are essential to tracking leave time. Employees are therefore required to submit timesheets in a timely and accurate manner. Failure to do so may result in interruption of pay.

Payroll Deductions. The Host Committee is required to make certain deductions from employee earnings. Amounts withheld may vary according to how much employees earn and designated withholding allowances. Mandated withholdings include federal and state taxes (if any), income taxes, social security taxes, Medicare taxes, and other mandated deductions. Please inform the Operations Team as quickly as possible if your deduction information (including your address) changes.

In addition to standard payroll deductions, the Host Committee is required by law to comply with certain court orders, liens, or wage assignments and to make payroll deductions pursuant to such orders. Other deductions may include contributions to a retirement account.

5. Travel and Expense Policies and Procedures

All reimbursement requests and documentation must be submitted through the Host Committee's expense tracking system. All receipts and other necessary documentation must be attached to the record in order for reimbursements to be processed. Original receipts, not copies or credit card receipts, are required for reimbursement. Copies of cancelled checks are not considered receipts. A bill, by itself, is not a receipt.

Reimbursement Approval Process

All reimbursements must be submitted through the expense management system for approval to the Operations Team using the Committee's expense management system. Approvals are required for reimbursements according to the following rules:

- Reimbursements under $1,000 must be approved by the Chief Operating Officer.
- Reimbursements over $1,000 must be approved by the Chief Operating Officer and the Chief of Staff.

All reimbursements must be submitted through the expense management system with the corresponding original receipts within 30 days of purchase or they will not be reimbursed.

Employee Responsibilities

It is the responsibility of each employee to understand and comply with the Travel and Expense Policies and Procedures in this Handbook prior to submitting expenses for payment. Any questions or guidance should be directed to the Chief Operating Officer or their designate. Periodic audits will be conducted on expense reports for compliance with the policy. Non-compliance with these policies is grounds for disciplinary action, up to and including termination.

The submission of a request for expense reimbursement is a representation that the expenditures incurred are in accordance with this policy and are absolutely true, complete and correct in all respects. The completed and signed expense report form with the required documentation and receipts should be forwarded to the Chief Operating Officer or their designate for approval and to accounts payable for processing using the Committee's expense management system.

Timing of Expense Report Submission

Reimbursement requests and supporting documentation must be submitted within 30 days of the expense being incurred. Employees will be reimbursed via direct deposit. The Operations team will process reimbursement requests within 30 days.

Cash Advances

Cash advances for employee travel are not provided by the Committee. In addition, ATM withdrawals will not be reimbursed. Employees traveling regularly on Committee business are encouraged to personally obtain a widely accepted major credit card. Any interest charges incurred are considered personal expenses and will not be reimbursed to the employee. Exceptions to this policy will need functional approval from the Chief Operating Officer.

Travel Basics

Host Committee employees may incur travel expenses during the course of their work at the Committee. In order to properly document and reimburse expenses, clear policies and procedures are required. All employees who travel for Committee business should seek to reduce travel costs whenever possible.

Prior to booking travel, employees must submit a travel request form for approval from the Chief Operating Officer. All travel requests must be submitted in a timely manner in order to be approved. Employees must receive additional approval for travel reimbursements according to the following rules:

- Prior approval from the Chief Operating Officer is required for all travel and travel expenditures over $250.
- Travel over $1,000 must receive prior approval from the Chief Operating Officer as the first approver and the Chief of Staff as the second approver.

The Committee will not pay the travel expenses of a spouse, partner, or other traveling companion. The Committee's policy is to use Union transportation and lodging when possible.

Travel Advances

The Committee will not issue travel advances.

Booking Travel

All travel booking itineraries (including but not limited to flights, trains, buses, hotels, and rental cars) over $250 must receive prior written approval by the Chief Operating Officer. Additionally, travel over $1,000 must also be approved by the Chief of Staff before purchase. Any proposed trips scheduled less than a week in advance may be declined due to increased or exorbitant costs.

Flights

Employees must book coach or economy class-tickets unless pre-approved by the Chief of Staff. Employees should select the lowest possible coach airfare unless the itinerary includes a layover of more than three hours.

Cancellation Policy

Most non-refundable tickets may be reused by the same person, on the same airline, within one year of the date of issue. For refundable tickets, most airlines now require the traveler to cancel the flight prior to the departure or the ticket has zero value. The travel confirmation will indicate the fare type and rules.

Any unused airline ticket paid for by the Committee is the sole property of the Committee.

In the event of an emergency, e.g. serious illness, injury or death in the employee's family, the Committee will reimburse the costs for an employee to return from the business travel location to his/her home city. If the emergency requires the employee to travel to a location other than his or her home city, the Committee will reimburse no more than what it would have cost had the employee returned to the home city.

If an employee or contractor is required by his or her manager to change personal travel plans to accommodate Committee business, subject to the approval requirements set forth above, the Committee will pay for airline change fees plus fare differential, if any, for the employee, to enable the employee to attend to the required Committee business. The Committee will not pay for such expenses for the employee's travel companions.

Overnight Accommodations

Employees who must travel 150 or more miles from home to attend an approved meeting or event that begins at 10:00 a.m. local time or earlier are eligible to be reimbursed for a hotel/motel room used the night before. The Committee will cover the room, taxes, and Wi-Fi only. No personal incidental charges such as in-room movies, mini-bar, phone, or business center charges will be covered or reimbursed. Lodging costs of non-business guests will not be reimbursed and shall not be paid for using Committee funds.

All hotel stays within the Greater Milwaukee Area must be pre-approved by the Chief Operating Officer and the Chief of Staff.

The Committee will reimburse up to the local GSA rate for lodging in each city, unless pre-approved by the Chief Operating Officer. You may check the GSA rate for your anticipated travel location at www.gsa.gov. Employees who violate a hotel's smoking policy will be responsible for any fines imposed by the hotel.

Ground Transportation: Within the Greater Milwaukee Area

Committee employees traveling to meetings outside of the office are expected to use public transportation or walk to meetings within the city limits of Milwaukee. Please use Union transportation whenever possible.

Taxi receipts will be reimbursed on a case-by-case basis with an explanation of why walking or the metro were not possible or efficient. Employees working past 10PM on a weekday or in attendance at a Committee related event may expense a taxi ride home. For the purpose of travel with the Committee, a "taxi" entails a traditional taxicab, an Uber, or a Lyft. The Committee will only reimburse for the cost of an UberX or an Uber Taxi or the Lyft equivalent. Use of Uber Black, SUV, Lux, or Lyft's equivalent services will not be reimbursed. Please limit use of the ride sharing apps during surge pricing whenever possible.

Ground Transportation: Outside the Greater Milwaukee Area

Transportation costs (i.e., shuttles or taxis) will be reimbursed for round-trip travel between an airport and hotel/motel, and round-trip travel between the hotel/motel and event location where the employee is performing work for the Host Committee (only if the event is not located at the hotel/motel at which the employee is staying and subject to the approval requirements set forth above).

Taxis will be the primary form of transportation when employees are traveling while out of town. Rental cars will only be approved on a case-by-case basis with an explanation of why other ground transportation is not feasible. For the purpose of travel with the Committee, a "taxi" entails a traditional taxicab, an Uber, or a Lyft. The Committee will only reimburse for the cost of an UberX or an Uber Taxi or the Lyft equivalent. Use of Uber Black, SUV, Lux, or Lyft's equivalent services will not be reimbursed. Please limit use of the ride sharing apps during surge pricing whenever possible.

Travel for other purposes other than those set forth above will not be covered unless authorized by the Chief Operating Officer. For any expense reimbursement requested, employees must provide a proper receipt to document the expense, an explanation of what the expense was for, and submit it for reimbursement.

Meals Per Diem

Employees approved for travel will be reimbursed for meals while on travel (unless the specified meal is provided by the event or company) at a rate of:

- Up to $15.00 per day for breakfast;
- Up to $25.00 per day for lunch; and
- Up to $30.00 per day for dinner.

If submitted receipts exceed a total of $70.00 per day for meals, the employee will be notified and will not be reimbursed beyond the daily limit unless approved by the Chief Operating Officer. Employees may claim meal per diems only for themselves.

Miscellaneous Reimbursement Expenses

The following expenses are eligible to be reimbursed when traveling on Committee business:

- Baggage fees, including overweight, oversize and/or over-limit (up to two) baggage, is allowed if the fee is incurred due to transporting equipment, materials, or supplies required for Committee business.
- Internet/Wi-Fi connectivity. Employees should be mindful of security issues surrounding wireless connectivity and shall comply with the Host Committee Electronic Systems policy set forth in this Handbook.
- Toll fees incurred when on Committee business

Non-Reimbursable Expenses

Non-reimbursable expenses are listed below. This list is not all-inclusive and there may be additional or similar non-reimbursable expenses which are not listed. Please contact the COO before you incur an expense if you have questions.

The following expenses are not reimbursable:

- Out-of-pocket expenses submitted more than 90 days after they were incurred.

- Lost luggage and contents.
- Fees or dues for airline VIP clubs and hotel loyalty or frequent-stayer programs.
- Trip cancellation insurance.
- Any expenses resulting from obtaining airline miles for personal use.
- Class of service upgrades.
- Health club services, e.g., massages, manicures, personal trainers.
- Personal travel expenses, including sundries or recreational reading.
- Inflight or in-room entertainment, e.g. movies.
- Costs for personal guests.
- Normal commuting costs.
- Parking or traffic citations.
- Cost of business clothing.
- Relocation-related expenses.
- Expenses incurred by spouses or partners of employees are not considered reimbursable.
- Personal gifts.
- Gift cards/certificates/vouchers in any amount for employees or non-employees.
- Tourist visa.
- ATM fees.
- EReader devices and supplies, i.e. Kindle, Kindle supplies.
- Gas for personal cars used for business and normal commuting mileage which have not received written pre-authorization from the Chief of Staff.
- Meals with potential donors, DNC staff, elected officials, DNC members or the public which have not received written pre-authorization from the Chief of Staff.

6. Termination of Employment, Notice, Severance Payments & Discipline

Resignation in Writing. In the event an employee chooses to resign from the Host Committee, such termination must be in writing (by letter, or e-mail) and must be presented to the President.

Resignation Notice. Exempt employees (as defined elsewhere in this Handbook) who resign are expected to give at least four (4) weeks' notice, while non-exempt employees who resign are expected to give at least two (2) weeks' notice of their resignation. Failure to provide such notice may result in forfeiture of payment for any accrued, but unused, vacation leave.

Severance. Any award of severance pay is entirely within the Host Committee's discretion and each case will be handled on its own merits as approved by the Host Committee's President.

Final Paycheck. Receipt of final pay is contingent upon the employee completing all pending assignments; preparing for an orderly transfer of responsibility to their successor; cleaning up their workspace; and returning all Host Committee property in their possession before departing Host Committee premises, such as keys, swipe cards, computers, phones, any other electronic devices, etc. In the case of Host Committee property that is not returned by the departing employee, the Host Committee reserves the right to offset from the final paycheck the fair market value of such property, if and in the manner authorized by applicable law. Likewise, when permitted by applicable law, the Host Committee may withhold from the final paycheck any amounts of money owed by the departing employee that the employee owes to the organization.

Typically, the final paycheck includes pay for all hours worked up through an employee's last day of employment.

7. Employee Records and References

The Host Committee maintains a personnel file for each Host Committee employee. Generally, this file contains basic records regarding the employment relationship with the Host Committee (acceptance letter, benefit enrollment forms, performance evaluations, termination letter and final memo), but may contain more or fewer documents than specified.

Employee personnel records are considered confidential. These files are maintained securely with access limited to the President, Chief of Staff and COO or to other individuals with express permission from the Host Committee President.

Employees may request access to review their personnel file, which will be granted on-site in the presence of management.

8. Personnel Information Changes

It is important that employment records are kept up-to-date. It is the employee's responsibility to inform the President of any relevant changes to their personal information. This includes changes to an employee's mailing address, telephone number(s), number and name(s) of dependents, marital status, tax withholding, emergency contacts, educational accomplishments, direct deposit account information, etc.

9. Employment Reference Inquiries

All requests for verification of employment go to the COO, and employment references are sent to the President. The President is the only individual at the Host Committee authorized to provide reference information. The Host Committee's practice is to verify only the employee's dates of employment and current or last job title. The Host Committee does not release salary or any other personnel information.

G. Employee Benefits

(1) General Benefits

Health Insurance

The Host Committee provides Group Medical, Dental, and Vision Insurance to all regular, full-time employees and their immediate families, with all premiums covered by the Host Committee. Part-time employees are not eligible for this insurance. Details of the current plan can be found on the HC Staff Shared Drive under the Staff Resources\Host Committee Health Insurance Plan Information folder.

Workers' Compensation

It is the Host Committee's intention to provide safe and healthy working conditions and to establish and insist upon safe practices at all times by all employees. However, in the event of injury, the Host Committees' Compensation coverage may help ameliorate any loss of income due to such injury. If you suffer any work-related injury, you must notify the COO immediately.

Other Benefits

All regular full-time employees will be eligible to participate in other Host Committee benefit programs. Those additional benefits will be announced as soon as the plans have been finalized.

(2) Leave Policies

General. The Host Committee complies with the requirements of the federal Family and Medical Leave Act and the Wisconsin Family and Medical Leave Act. To the extent any provision of the policies set forth below would entitle an employee to leave on less favorable terms than provided by applicable law, the Host Committee will comply with the applicable law.

Vacation/Personal Leave

Each regular full-time employee is entitled to ten days of vacation/personal leave during the term of their employment with the Host Committee. Any vacation/personal days not used in 2019 may be carried over into 2020.

For purpose of continuity and smooth flow of operation in each department, employees must notify their supervisors and the COO of their planned vacation/personal days, and receive approval from both for the scheduling of those days, at least 2 weeks before any vacation/personal day is taken, except in exigent circumstances as determined by the COO.

In the weeks immediately preceding and during the Convention, the Host Committee will need everyone to be working all-out. Accordingly, no employee may take any vacation/personal day occurring during the period from and including May 1, 2020 through and including July 31, 2020, without the advance written approval of the President.

The value of unused vacation/personal days will not be paid out to an employee upon the termination of their employment, for any reason.

Holidays for Host Committee Employees

In addition to vacation/personal leave, the Host Committee observes the following as paid holidays:

- New Year's Day

- Presidents Day
- Martin Luther King Day
- Memorial Day
- Fourth of July/Independence Day
- Labor Day
- Thanksgiving Day
- Christmas Day

If Host Committee operations so require, an employee may be required by their supervisor to work on a holiday. An employee required to work on a paid holiday will be allowed to schedule a paid day off to substitute for the holiday. Employees must notify their supervisors of their planned paid day off, and receive approval for the scheduling of those days, at least 2 weeks before any paid day off is taken, except in exigent circumstances.

Sick Leave

Each regular full-time employee is entitled to take up to seven (7) days of paid sick leave during the term of their employment with the Host Committee. Any sick leave days not used in 2019 may be carried over to 2020.

An employee will not be paid out the value of any unused sick leave upon termination of employment with the Host Committee.

If an employee is sick for more than seven (7) days during the term of their employment with the Host Committee, and a licensed physician certifies that the employee is unable to fulfill the duties of their position, the employee will first use Sick Leave, then Vacation/Personal Leave, and then leave without pay under the federal and Wisconsin Family and Medical Leave Acts.

Bereavement Leave

In the event of a death within an employee's immediate family, paid Bereavement Leave will be granted, up to a maximum of six (6) days. This leave is not charged against Sick Leave or against Vacation/Personal Leave.

An employee's "immediate family" is defined to include the employee's spouse, live-in partner, child, father, mother, sister, brother, grandparent, father-in-law, and mother-in-law.

Court Leave: Jury Duty & Serving as a Witness

General. Employees who are subpoenaed to appear in court as a witness or are called for jury duty may be granted paid leave. Court Leave will not be counted against other earned leave.

If work time remains after any day of jury selection, jury duty, or serving as a witness, employees are expected to return to work for the remainder of the day where practical. Further, within five (5) days of return to work, employees must submit proof to the President of the jury summons, of any jury compensation received, and a copy of subpoenas, as applicable to the situation.

Maternity/Paternity/Partner/Adoption Leave

An employee who becomes a parent through the birth of a child or adoption may take up to ten (10) work weeks (50 working days) of paid leave. A pregnant employee may take any part of those 10 work weeks during their pregnancy. This 10-week period will run concurrently with the periods of family and medical leave to which the employee is entitled under the federal and Wisconsin Family and Medical Leave Acts. Any leave to which an employee is entitled under those laws in excess of ten weeks will be unpaid.

Any unused maternity/paternity/partner/adoption leave will not be paid out to the employee upon the termination of employment.

Military Leave

Pursuant to Chapter 43, Part III, Title 38 of the U.S. Code, employees who are reservists or members of the National Guard are entitled to full re-employment rights following extended periods of active military service. Reserve and National Guard personnel are required by law to request a leave of absence from their civilian employees for any military training that will require their absence from work including:

- Weekly or weekend drill,
- Annual tours of active duty for training, and
- Special courses of instruction

The Host Committee grants up to fifteen (15) days per year of paid Military Leave, less the base pay from the military during a tour of duty. If a tour of duty exceeds fifteen (15) days, the excess time must be charged to Leave Without Pay or Vacation/Personal Annual Leave.

An employee who enters the Armed Forces of the United States will be placed on an extended leave without pay in accordance with applicable federal laws. Upon completion of military service, the employee will be reinstated in accordance with federal laws.

H. Host Committee Electronic Systems

1. No Expectation of Privacy

The Host Committee has the right and responsibility to monitor Host Committee operations to safeguard assets, resources, work product and staff safety and security. As part of this activity, the Host Committee maintains the right to monitor and inspect Host Committee property, activities and personal items brought into Host Committee offices when warranted. This includes documents, computers, files, physical spaces, e-mail, and anything transmitted or received over Host Committee servers or on Host Committee property.

(1) Electronic Communications and Computer Use

The Host Committee's e-mail system, access to the Internet, and various applications and software programs provided by the Host Committee are Host Committee assets that are available for appropriate employee use. These tools are designed to enhance the ability to engage in business communications with others and to access information employees need for work.

Employees are encouraged to enhance their productivity by using such tools while following the guidelines for their use set in this Handbook. There are numerous details surrounding the use of these tools, including information on federal and state laws regarding copyright infringement.

Host Committee computing technology is assigned and supported exclusively for the work of the Host Committee. Employees may from time to time use Host Committee technology for limited personal purposes so long as such use does not interfere with the employee's work or that of any other Host Committee employee.

Use of Host Committee resources for any illegal activity, including piracy of music, video, or other medium, or for accessing or distributing material inappropriate to the workplace (including material that could be construed as harassing or discriminatory) is strictly prohibited and will lead to disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Host Committee network systems provide the ability to monitor all Internet traffic, including web sites visited by individual users. The Host Committee reserves the right to monitor such Internet traffic. Employees should have no expectation of privacy in their use of any Host Committee-furnished electronic communications and access. The Host Committee reserves the right to review and monitor employee use of its electronic systems and equipment.

Software and hardware are not permitted to be installed on Host Committee computers without prior approval from the information technology staff. Please consult the information technology department with any questions.

(2) Acceptable E-Mail Use

Staff are provided an e-mail account for Host Committee business only. Please keep in mind that all Internet messages sent from the Host Committee domain implicitly represent the Host Committee and should never contain information that would be unacceptable to release into the public domain on Host Committee letterhead. E-mail is an inherently unsecured medium (even with the security measures set out below) and should be treated with due care.

For personal correspondence, staff should access and use public web-based e-mail systems and not use Host Committee email accounts.

All e-mails sent or received through Host Committee computers or servers, or on other Host Committee-provided or sponsored devices - whether to a Host Committee domain or public web-based e-mail - are the property of the Host Committee, and the Host Committee reserves the right to monitor any and all employee e-mail traffic. As noted above, employees should have no expectation of privacy in their use of any Host Committee-furnished electronic communications and access.

(3) Systems and Data Security

The Host Committee will be providing you with a set of best practices for account and device security. Employees have a responsibility to employ these practices for protecting their own data. They also have a responsibility for assisting in the protection of the systems they use. The security of each individual employee is closely related to the security of the whole system, and whenever an employee selects an inappropriately easy password, that employee places the security of all Host Committee data at risk by making it possible for an unauthorized intruder to manipulate the entire system.

(4) Use of Copyrighted Material

The Host Committee prohibits the unauthorized reproduction of copyrighted materials. The fact that material is posted on the Internet does not necessarily mean that the material is available in the public domain, nor that it may be freely copied and circulated. Copyright restrictions may apply to such material, just as they do to other forms of publications. Unauthorized reproduction includes copying done beyond that which is permitted under the US copyright law without permission of the copyright holder.

Copying of materials without the permission of the copyright holder may not be a violation of US copyright law if the copy is considered "fair use." As a general matter, employees are advised against making and distributing copies of articles, or complete pages of Web sites, electronic magazines, or newsletters. In addition, employees are cautioned against systematic reproduction of articles for later (rather than current) use and creating personal libraries. (Note that copyright law does not protect works created by the US government, so employees may freely copy and distribute these materials.)

Host Committee employees who make, acquire, or use unauthorized copies of computer software shall be disciplined as appropriate under the circumstances.

If an employee has any question about whether material is subject to copyright or can be used consistent with the intellectual property rights of other parties, the Host Committee legal counsel should be consulted.

I. Confidentiality, Media and Social Media

(1) Confidentiality

This policy is intended to alert employees to the need for discretion at all times and is not intended to inhibit normal business communications. This policy is not intended to preclude or dissuade employees from engaging in any activities that are protected by state or federal law (including the National Labor Relations Act), such as discussing wages, benefits or terms and conditions of employment, or raising complaints about working conditions for their own benefit or for the benefit of their co-workers.

Employees are encouraged to speak with the President if they have any questions about what is/is not considered confidential. When in doubt, employees should treat information as confidential.

The duty to maintain confidentiality continues even after the individual leaves the Host Committee's employment.

"Confidential Information" includes information (a) disclosed to you or known or obtained by you through your employment by the Host Committee and (b) not generally known to the public. It includes information relating to lists of existing and/or prospective donors to the Host Committee, strategies, operations and plans of the Host Committee and/or the DNCC internal budgets, financial projections and statements, costs, existence and terms of contracts with vendors to the Host Committee and DNCC, staff structure, personnel history, and accounting procedures of the Host Committee and DNCC.

You may not, during your employment (other than in the course of performing your duties for the Host Committee) or after termination of your employment, for any reason, directly or indirectly disclose to anyone any Confidential Information that you have acquired while you were employed here. You agree not to make any use of any Confidential Information for any purpose whatsoever other than for the performance of your obligations and duties to the Host Committee.

No Confidential Information may ever be used, discussed or referred to by you on any weblog maintained by you personally, on any social media site that you maintain personally, on or disseminated to or through any medium. You may not publish, post or disseminate any content relating to the Host Committee, DNCC, their operations, or personnel, on any personal social media site in any communication disseminated to the public other than communications made by and authorized by the Host Committee.

(2) Communications with the Press

Except as specifically authorized by the President, Chief of Staff or Communications Director, Host Committee employees are not permitted, on behalf of the Host Committee, to communicate with any member of the press, including representatives of both print and digital media, about any aspect of the Host Committee structure, personnel, operations or programs, or the services you perform in connection with your employment with the Host Committee, or any Confidential Information.

All queries from the press, in whatever form or circumstances they are made, must be referred to the Chief of Staff or Communications Director.

(3) Social Media Policy

All Host Committee employees may set up and use social media for their personal use. However, you are held accountable for your postings. All employees must be careful about what they post on their Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Google+, etc. accounts, because so much of the Host Committee's work is carried out in the public sphere.

It's important that while you're working for the Host Committee, you conduct yourself professionally when using all forms of social media, as your actions and comments reflect on the Host Committee, the DNCC and the Democratic Party of the United States. When maintaining or contributing to social media channels, please exercise sound judgment and common sense at all times.

What you publish is widely accessible and discoverable and will be around for a long time, so consider content carefully. It's a good idea to set your accounts to private, so only your friends can see them. This is especially true with pictures.

The Host Committee is a civic, non-political organization. The Committee and its employee must remain neutral in the Democratic Primary. Use common sense and good judgement before posting anything that may be deemed political or endorsing a particular candidate.

Host Committee employees are prohibited from posting any disparaging or negative comment, article or material relating to the DNCC, the Host Committee, any of their respective officers or staff, donors, or the candidates for the Democratic nomination for President in 2020. Employees are prohibited from using social media to post comments that threaten, harass, bully, or intimidate the DNCC's or Host Committee's employees, officers, consultants, donors, or partners, or to make any posts that are discriminatory, racist, or otherwise would constitute harassment.

This policy is not intended to preclude or dissuade employees from engaging in any activities that are protected by state or federal law (including the National Labor Relations Act), such as discussing wages, benefits or terms and conditions of employment, or raising complaints about working conditions for their own benefit or for the benefit of their co-workers. It is not intended to restrict private employee communications that respect the confidentiality of Host Committee business. Nor is it intended to prevent employees from sharing Host Committee communications that are created for distribution to the general public, such as press releases, DNCC and Host Committee postings on social media, job postings and appeals for volunteers.

Violation of this policy may lead to disciplinary action up to and including termination.

If there is any question on what you are allowed to post contact the Chief of Staff or Communications Director for approval.

J. Host Committee Property; Employee Work Product

(1) Intellectual Property

Any and all writings, materials, computer programs, designs, artwork, photography, other graphic works, audio and audiovisual works (for example, videos) and other works, in any form, whether written, electronic or otherwise, created or produced by an employee in the course of their performance of services for the Host Committee are and will remain the exclusive property of the Host Committee. All of these works will be deemed works for hire created for the Host Committee for purposes of the Copyright Law of 1976; and all copyright and any other rights in and to those writings, materials and works will belong to the Host Committee. To the extent any such work does not constitute a work made for hire, each employee may be required to assign to the Host Committee all copyright and other rights in and to those works, including signing any necessary written agreement.

(2) Ownership of Records and Data

All electronic information generated and stored on Host Committee computers is the property of the Host Committee, including any e-mails, memoranda, or research acquired in the course of an employee's business. Disclosing any information from the Host Committee network to another party, other than in the regular course of Host Committee responsibilities, is strictly prohibited and grounds for discipline up to and including termination. This includes permitting a non-Host Committee party direct access to Host Committee data or network facilities.

All documents, files, donor, employee, volunteer and similar lists or databases, information and data that you acquire in the course of your employment by the Host Committee, in any form, relating to the programs, operations and activities of the Host Committee are and will remain the sole and exclusive property of the Host Committee. When your employment with the Host Committee ends for any reason, you must turn over all of those files, documents, lists and other information to the Host Committee. A departing employee has no right to retain any information generated in the course of Host Committee business or via Host Committee technology, including the employee's e-mails and contacts. While accommodations may be made on a case-by-case basis and in the sole discretion of the Host Committee for departing employees to keep a copy of some data that employee has generated, the information technology staff is not authorized to create such copies on removable media without signed authorization from the President.

All such materials and information in an employee's possession, as well as any other Host Committee-provided information, devices, keys, or property, must be returned to the Host Committee immediately upon departure from employment.

Under no circumstances may a departing employee or any other non-Host Committee party receive a copy of the data or any part of it from enterprise databases including, but not limited to, the donor database system.

(3) Responsibility for Portable Equipment

Employees who are assigned and accept portable technology equipment including aircards and laptop computers assume all liability for the physical condition of that equipment, extra responsibility for information security, and an obligation to return the same equipment in good condition in a timely manner to the Host Committee.

The Host Committee will provide technical support and software reconfiguration as necessary on remote equipment. Employees will not be required to reimburse the Host Committee for normal "wear and tear" on the equipment. All equipment will be bar coded in accordance with an inventory control system and you may be asked to provide a credit card which will be charged if you do not return he equipment at the end of your employment and cannot provide information that would support an insurance claim and/or police report.

The Host Committee reserves the right to deduct such amounts from employee compensation to the extent permitted by applicable law.

Remote equipment also presents special information security issues. Employees should be conscious of the value of the information they take with them on the road and take all reasonable precautions to ensure that it is protected and backed up from time to time. All laptops and smartphones must have access passwords, and those passwords should never be easily guessable or written down and stored with the equipment.

If a wireless email device is lost or stolen the employee is expected to inform the President as soon as possible so that the device may be disabled remotely.

K. Budgeting and Spending

(1) Obligating Host Committee Funds

No employee other than the President or COO may obligate the Host Committee to spend any funds or incur any other liability or obligation. This means no employee other than the President or COO is authorized to sign any contract or purchase order obligating the Host Committee to pay for anything.

If as part of your responsibilities, and subject to your departmental budget, either internally or for the Convention, you need a contract entered on behalf of the Host Committee, you should submit a contract request on the form provided, approved by your department head, to the COO.

If, as part of your responsibilities, and subject to your departmental budget, you need any payment made by the Host Committee under an existing contract or purchase order, you should submit a Disbursement Request on the form provided, approved by your department head, to the COO.

Any person creating an obligation for the Host Committee, either written or oral, without prior written authorization, is taking the risk of being held personally liable for that obligation to the extent permitted by law.

(1) Ethics in Contracting

Employees who are authorized to make or influence purchasing decisions on behalf of the Host Committee must agree to a strict code of conduct for such decisions. They must:

1. Make decisions based on honesty, fairness, and personal integrity.

2. Deal impartially with all suppliers and must refuse all significant gifts or other favors, the acceptance of which might give rise to doubts concerning their impartiality. Donations or gifts by a prospective vendor to the institution itself are prohibited.

3. Operate without any interest, direct or indirect, financial or otherwise, in any business with which the Host Committee has a business relationship, except where such interests consist of holding securities of a publicly-owned corporation regularly traded on the public stock market.

4. Make purchases that are not conditioned in any way, directly or indirectly, upon any reciprocity or other interdependence.

5. Comply with all domestic and foreign laws applicable to such purchases.

Employees must also comply with all other purchasing rules and policies that exist regarding financial limits, and which the Host Committee may change from time to time.
